

screens and displays

There is no better way to relax, than to lay back in the comfort of your home and enjoy your favourite film from your DVD collection. Your audio senses are stimulated by surround sound and the screen displays vivid images, visually drawing you into the film.

A good quality plasma, LCD or projector are the key to making the most of your films and favourite discovery programmes, especially with advent HD TV (High Definition Television). HD ready televisions are the latest wave of screens to hit the mass market and are likely to become common place as SKY looks to roll out a high definition service by the end of 2005.

The advancement of screen technology over past few years has been phenomenal and is set to continue. This is great news in one sense, but can make it difficult for customers to keep pace with development and the variety of products available can be overwhelming. ISEC Solutions have access to whole range of products from numerous premium brands. Blend this with a wealth of knowledge and we can offer solutions for every situation, together with good impartial advice.

design and installation

A home cinema system can be seamlessly integrated into any home, using structured cabling and specialist accessories we can provide a solution which is unobtrusive and sympathetic to your homes decor. Each install is tailored to your requirements, for example we can provide custom options such as bespoke furniture to house your audio equipment or we can provide more innovative products such as LCD screens disguised as mirrors and wall mounted speakers which at first glance appear to framed pictures.

By blending all this specialist knowledge with a keen interest in interior design, genuine enthusiasm for home cinema and constant drive for perfection, sets us apart from other custom installers.
